SUBMISSION:

Your team's prototype and any other materials submitted in connection with the Event will be referred to herein as your team's "Submission". Submissions may include code, project entry information, team participant information, demonstration videos, and documentation. Instructions will be provided on how to submit your project and/or check in the code for your prototype. We will enforce one project Submission per team. Winning teams may be subject to a code review at some point following the event or immediately before the winners are announced. Your team must complete its prototype before the end of the "Hackathon Period," running from February 12, 2019 to July 29th, 2019.

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY:

Participants own the rights to the Submission they create during the Contest, subject to any license terms of the underlying Technology used in the Submission. Your team may create a prototype using data and/or API's or other copyrightable material owned by third parties. This could mean that you or a teammate use Technology owned or licensed by a third party. "Technology" means, without limitation, content (including pictorial, audio and audio-visual content), code, specifications, technical information, algorithms, images, design, art, music, graphics, SFX, data, and any other information or materials protected by any intellectual property right. You and your team must abide by the terms of any licenses associated with any third-party Technology used as part of your Submission, including any payment terms or other license terms that could apply for continued use of the Technology. By participating in the Hackathon, you will receive access to certain proprietary software, APIs, and/or other copyrighted materials, including pictorial, audio, video and/or audio-visual content ("Material") owned by the Sponsor or its affiliates, partners or licensors. You must comply with all license terms associated with such Sponsor Material, including any payment terms or other license terms that could apply for continued use of the Technology. Your team will be disqualified if the Sponsors have any reason to believe that your team has violated the terms of this paragraph. You should consult with appropriate advisors or legal counsel if you have any doubt as to whether you are meeting the requirements of this paragraph. Your team may bring to the Hackathon any pre-developed or licensed Technology that you plan to use in connection with your prototype, provided that such Technology meets the requirements of this paragraph.

As a condition of entry, you grant Sponsor and Partner a perpetual, irrevocable, worldwide, royalty-free, and non-exclusive license to use, publicly perform, publicly display, or publish any Submission in whole or in part that is submitted to this Event, for any purpose, including the purposes of allowing the Sponsor and Partner to test and evaluate the entry for purposes of this Event, to administer the technical and other requirements of the Event, including distribution of the entry to the Sponsor and Partner, and for Prize award, verification and fulfillment.

- Creativity and innovation (5 points)

A current list of judges can be found at the Event Website (callforcode.org/challenge). Judges are subject to change in The Sponsor's sole discretion. A judge may elect to recuse him or herself from evaluating a Submission, or The Sponsor may require a judge to recuse him or herself from evaluating a Submission, if, in the judge's or The Sponsor's discretion, it would not be appropriate for the judge to evaluate a participant's Submission because of a past or current relationship with the participant. Recusal decisions are final and not subject to appeal.
